

MONEY

A NEW PLAY BY RICK MILLER

MONEY is an epic new Canadian play in two Acts, starring eight of our country's top theatre talents, including writer/director/performer Rick Miller.

Billionaire patriarch Max Weisz pits his two sons against each other, using wealth as a weapon. Three generations of the Weisz family reel from the fallout, as Max's A.I. creation runs for Prime Minister of Canada.

Structured like a futuristic chess game, MONEY is a melodrama about love, loss, trust and betrayal.

MONEY tells the story of how wealth, power and technology are shaping human society, and challenging our values. Audiences are invited into one of the most important conversations of our time: how do we build a future together that is more equitable, peaceful, and sustainable? A big question that stirs up big emotions, which is why we need storytellers to get to the heart of it.

MONEY is currently in development towards a Toronto premiere in June of 2027.

THE PLAY IS JUST THE BEGINNING...

Introducing

MONEY: INTERACTIVE

ONE STORY. MULTIPLE EXPERIENCES. POSSIBLE FUTURES.

MONEY: THE PLAY establishes the story, characters and stakes.

MONEY: THE GAME hands agency to the audience, who become the “players”.

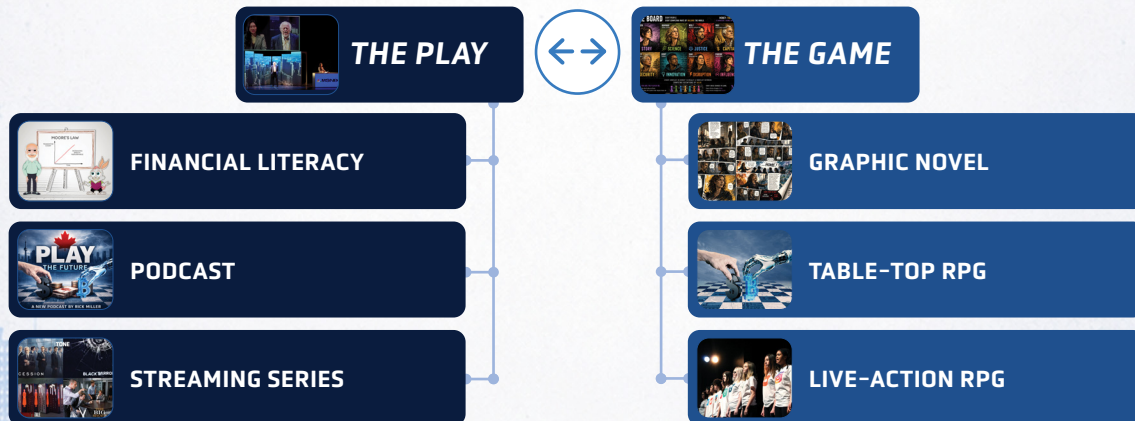

As the curtain falls, theatre patrons are prompted through a QR code to continue the experience on their devices with MONEY: THE GAME. The same story unfolds, but as a playable graphic novel, where audiences get to choose alternate futures based on their own values.

MONEY: THE GAME can be played with or without sound. Without sound, comic panels appear onscreen with dialogue boxes and choice prompts. With sound, all dialogue and choice prompts are performed by the cast, and enhanced by sound effects and scoring – a fully-dramatized, “Choose-Your-Own-Adventure” audiobook.

THERE'S MORE...

THE PLAY and THE GAME each branch into new platforms, forming an ecosystem of eight interconnected properties.

MONEY: INTERACTIVE is a multi-platform IP built around a powerful story and a hopeful vision: that we can learn to build a better future together through play-based engagement.
