Dear Friends,

This year, as we celebrate an incredible milestone—100 years of community, connection, and creativity—we are taking a moment to reflect on what The Lyric truly means to the Treasure Coast.

For a century, The Lyric has been a place where people gather, memories are made, and stories are shared. Our impact reaches far beyond the walls of our historic theater. The Lyric is also a vital part of our local economy and an important investment in the future of our community.

When you buy a ticket to a show, your impact begins long before the first chord strikes.

A night at The Lyric brings people downtown, filling seats at neighboring restaurants, supporting local storefronts, and creating opportunities for hospitality workers. Your support also helps provide jobs for our dedicated local team—from box office associates and house managers to sound and lighting engineers, stagehands, security personnel, and custodial staff.

And it extends even further. We employ artists and their hardworking touring crews, and bringing these talented performers to our stage means investing in local hotels, restaurants, transportation, and other businesses that help make their visit possible.

Every performance creates a ripple effect. Your decision to spend an evening at The Lyric helps keep our local economy moving and our community thriving.

A strong community is about more than what we build today. It is also about what we leave for the next generation.

We believe access to the performing arts should never be a luxury. Every young person deserves the opportunity to experience the excitement of live performance, discover their own creativity, and see what is possible when they are given the chance to dream.

Through our Arts & Educational Programming, we open our doors to students and families throughout the Treasure Coast. Just a few weeks ago, The Lyric came alive in a different way during our AWESOME! Summer Camp, where local youth explored the performing arts while building lifelong skills in collaboration, confidence, communication, and creative problem-solving.

And that experience doesn't end when summer does.

Through KidTix, young people can experience live performances through free tickets. Our Discovery Series provides free, interactive performances for schools and nonprofit organizations serving young people. These programs make it possible for thousands of students and families to experience the magic of The Lyric—many for the very first time.

That first experience can be powerful.

It can spark a lifelong love of the arts. It can inspire a future performer, musician, technician, arts educator, or venue professional. It can create the next generation of patrons who will one day sit in these same seats and carry forward the tradition we are celebrating today.

This is why your support matters.

Whether you come to The Lyric for the nostalgic comfort of a classic anthem, the excitement of discovering a new artist, or the simple joy of sharing a night out with someone you love, you are helping make something bigger possible.

You are supporting local jobs.

You are strengthening our local economy.

You are giving young people access to the arts.

You are helping preserve a piece of our community's history.

And you are helping ensure that The Lyric has a future for the next 100 years.

Your presence, your applause, and your generosity are what keep the music playing. Thank you for being such an important part of our history—and an even more important part of our future.

Every ticket. Every donation. Every visit to The Lyric makes a difference.

Let the music move you,

Kia Fontaine

100 years...

Weaving together the history of The Lyric Theatre over the past 100 years is a story of community, connection & creativity. A community that joined together to support and save this historic treasure is our story. The thriving Lyric we now know is a testament to our Community.

1913 The Stuart Times printed on its first page an article telling of the plans of JC "Judge" Hancock for his "new" theater. The first Lyric was built on Osceola Avenue near Belle Flora what is now Colorado Avenue.

March 15, 1926 The Lyric opened its doors with a special presentation featuring an overture by Mrs. Hancock on the pipe organ and screening of Skinner's Dress Suit. With so much excitement from the community, The Lyric was packed to capacity, and large numbers of people were turned away. The Stuart Daily News reported, "Judging from the attendance at the theatre, The Lyric is going to be a mighty popular place. It is indeed an ideal playhouse and one that every resident of Stuart might well be proud of."

1930 Newly equipped with a RCA Photophone sound picture machine, Danger Lights was screened as the first "talkie." Admission was 20 cents for the 7:00 pm show and 40 cents for the 8:30 pm show.

1941 Katharine Hepburn recited Edna St. Vincent Millay's "The Harp Weavers" as part of the annual Kiwanis Minstrel show at The Lyric.

1956 Greene's Dry Goods expanded into the space next door, formerly occupied by the Lyric Pharmacy, for its shoe department.

1957 Six refugees from Hungary brought to Stuart by the Catholic Relief Services in front of a Taxi Company housed in The Lyric storefront.

1914 Stuart's first theater opened its doors for its first performance. The auditorium was forty feet square with a seating capacity of 250 people. With no electricity in Stuart, the theater had its own dynamo and gasoline engine and made its own electricity.

1917 The Lyric was moved to the little wooden structure on Osceola Avenue. C. Frederick "Fred" Hancock (JC Hancock's son) was called away to the service to serve in the war, ending the motion pictures for Stuart.

1925 Built as a silent movie house with a small stage for Vaudeville acts, The Lyric was the largest building in Martin County. It was built for $100,000 by Judge John Hancock and his wife, Mamie. The Lyric Building, as it was called, had a 900-seat theatre and featured retail storefronts, including Bailey's Drug Store with an eleven-foot-long soda fountain counter. Ventilation in the Lyric Theatre building was the most modern available, known as the Arctic Nu-Air system.

1925 The Lyric under construction during a parade for Governor Martin as part of the celebration of the establishment of Martin County.

1936 The Hancocks fell on hard times during the Great Depression and sold The Lyric to the bank.

1937 Over the following years, The Lyric was leased out to the Sparkes Theater chain and various community groups to present traveling vaudeville shows, news weeklies, and movies.

1949 People line Flagler Street to watch the Fourth of July parade.

1950s

1978 The Lyric was purchased by the New Life in Christ Church, which used the theatre for weekly worship services. By 1987, the church wanted to move, and the theatre was put up for sale.

1988 Friends of the Lyric purchased the building from the New Life in Christ Church at purchase price of $300,000, with a $5,000 deposit required to finalize the contract. Roy Laycock went door to door seeking out ten $500 donors, and within 24 hours, the funds were raised.

1989 Friends of the Lyric became a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit organization.

1993 The Lyric Theatre was listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

1996 New Orchestra seating was installed and administrative offices constructed.

1999 A vacant lot to the north of The Lyric was purchased for a future expansion of the stage and backstage areas.

2004 Many rummage sales and fundraisers were held on this lot to raise funds for the expansion and in 2004, the project began with support and commitment from donors, patrons and community partners.

1987 The Lyric was put up for sale. Seen as an anchor and much needed entertainment center, Roy Laycock entered into a contract to purchase the building. Believing the community should own The Lyric, Roy gathered a group of people with fundraising and operational backgrounds to ignite and support his vision.

1991-1995 With grant funding from the State of Florida, National Endowment for the Arts and local community funding and support, The Lyric underwent needed stabilization and repair: new roof and air conditioning systems, ADA Compliance alterations, Box Office construction, marquee improvements and remodeling of the lobby, restrooms and dressing room.

2001 The balcony of the theater was remodeled for the installation of new balcony seating, an elevator was installed and refurbishment of the lobby and restrooms.

2005 The Lyric expansion was completed, enlarging the stage 16 feet and adding a backstage equipped with a restroom and office/storage areas.

The Lyric Theatre was built in 1920 to show silent films, and "was never designed for more than a juggler and a comedian," says John Loesser.

Expansion made possible by acquisition of vacant lot

For regional arts groups, including the Treasure Coast Concert Association, Shiloh Classical Orchestra, Shiloh Theatrical Productions, Peter Jones Productions and Florida Arts and Dance Company.

Most of the modifications won't be obvious to Lyric patrons, but they are significant nonetheless. By buying a vacant lot connected to the theatre, the Lyric was able to add a circular 12 feet of depth to its stage and completely redo the backstage, creating more dressing rooms, more storage space and a reception area (with kitchen facilities), plus additional offices for the theatre's staff.

For the Lyric, which already has become an incredibly ambitious presence, it opens up a whole new world of booking opportunities. Not only will the theatre be able to host performances without making excuses in advance, it will also be able to present bigger — and more technically complex — shows with video projections and other scenic elements.

Loesser points to one selling example: the modern dance troupe "Hush," a group whose easy, pre-produced productions have enormous popular appeal.

October 1, 2021
The Lyric reopened.

2014 The Lyric was closed for substantial renovation as part of the Love The Lyric Capital Campaign. The campaign resulted in substantial renovations to the lobby and box office, new exterior and interior entrances, new orchestra seating, new sound system and architectural elements were added to the walls and columns.

March 2020 The Lyric was shuttered due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Enough funds had been saved to perform critical building repairs and maintenance. The project, though extremely essential to the preservation had to be put on hold.

2015-16 The Lyric's proscenium was ornamented in an Art Nouveau style. The elegant design, artistry and craftsmanship of the trompe l'oeil art technique were added throughout The Lyric including the balcony parapet, doorway transoms and interior theatre walls.

2021 With amazing community support for The Next Act Capital Campaign, The Lyric underwent critical structural and building renovations including substantial structural column and beam replacement/repairs, new roof, new air conditioning units and restoration of the marquees.

March 2021
The Lyric had been closed for one year.

2026 The Lyric celebrates 100 years of community, connection & creativity. Here's to her future...

Continuing to provide Treasure Coast families with the wonderfully unique and magical experience of live performing arts.

That's a Wrap!

THE LYRIC'S AWE, THAT'S SOME! SUMMER CAMP 2026

The Lyric's summer campers had an AWESOME time in 2026 growing as performers, artists, and community members. Session One, Why We Tell The Story, was all about learning how we fit into the history of performative art and how it shaped our world and the ways we communicate. Campers got to journey through different periods of history and experience what art, music, and dance meant to our ancestors, and how it connects us today.

In July, Session Two, Unplugged, opened up important conversations about the role technology plays in our lives, and how to approach our interactions with it mindfully and in ways that have a positive impact on our mental health, which sometimes means disconnecting. We looked at it from the perspective of a parent as well as a kid, and presented thought-provoking original material for our families and the community.

Thanks so much for the opportunity to share our summer together, and we look forward to another awesome summer in 2027!

-Jill Kober, LASC Camp Director
